

CASE STUDY

Achieving Business Results with the LMI® Effective Personal Productivity Course

THE ISSUE

To improve project management skills within the construction sector through better personal organisation.

THE SOLUTION

Barry Lynch, Director, E.D.P.M., enrolled on the LMI® Effective Personal Productivity open leadership programme.

THE RESULTS

The primary goal was achieved together with several other goals through:

- Application of the course content
- The appropriate use of exercises
- Time and direction

Engineering Design Project Management (E.D.P.M.) was established in 1999. Since then, under the guidance of its two Directors Barry Lynch and Alan Guildea, it has established itself as one of the leading construction project management companies in the South East.

BUSINESS SUCCESS

BARRY LYNCH IS A FIRM ADVOCATE OF LMI® AND THE PROCESS IT EMPLOYS WITH ITS CLIENTS. BARRY STATES,

“Not only did the EPP programme help me achieve my key business goals around project management, it also helped me achieve other important gains. These include:

- Improved relationships in the workplace through more effective communications
- A clearer understanding of how to organise and plan achievable goals
- The importance and proper use of time
- Understanding empathy
- Realising that anything is achievable”

Martin Byrne, LMI® Partner.

PERSONAL GOALS

“While the initial rationale behind my participation in the EPP programme was business related, the course helped me examine my priorities in life and the greatest gain for me through the course is my appreciation of family.

The course also gives a foundation and direction in any challenge in life – sporting, education, occupation, personal and financial.”

ONGOING PARTNERSHIPS

“Another unique feature of the LMI process is the follow up process. This helps keep focus on application of the course content and the productive habits one develops while undergoing the programme. It is my view that the greatest gains are those achieved through the continual application and commitment to one's goals.”
